Tickle 'Em Jock and King Oorang
Among the Star Boarders

Andrew Albright, Jr., acknowledges that he has been in the dog game for twenty-five years, and if Mr. Albright is as young as he looks, then one can only infer that he learned the rudiments of the game shortly after leaving the cradle.

The Baughfell Kennels are located at Hilton, N. J., just ten miles from the metropolis, and are conceded to be the leading variety terrier kennels of America.

During the score of years that Mr. Albright has been interested in breeding and showing dogs he has owned champions of many breeds, including setters, greyhounds, Old English sheepdogs, bull-dogs, pointers and every conceivable breed of terrier. It is doubtful if any one kennel in the country has won as many prizes and special honors as the Baughfell Kennels.

The terrier inmates have scored at such important exhibitions as the Westminster, Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles and Boston shows. The great Scottish terrier, Tickle 'Em Jock, formerly the property of Baughfell Kennels, won the special for the best in the show at the Westminster exhibition in 1911, and for three years previous had carried away the trophy for the best Scottish terrier.

To name the inmates of the kennels which have won fame in the show ring would be impossible. Among the recent ones, however, are some dogs the names of which are known on both sides of the Atlantic, and since the recent California show, one might add, on one side of the Pacific.

The Scottish terrier list is headed by "Champion Tickle 'Em Jock, and then come such celebrities as Champion Baughfell Elfr and Champion Baughfell Jill. Among the English setters are Champion Maltby Ned, Champion Queen's Place Pride, Champion Blackon of Leek and other noted English setters. In English bulldogs there are Champion Florence Blunder, Champion Fascination and Champion Mervin Jock.

At the present time the Baughfell Kennels are particularly strong in all of the popular terrier breeds. Mr. Albright has a penchant for the Airedale terrier, and, indeed, there is something so fascinating about that manufactured dog that few can resist him. The Airedale terrier seems to be particularly amenable to moulding and is becoming more and more exaggerated in type to suit the popular fancy. His saddle is becoming blacker and his body more brilliantly tan; his muzzle is getting longer, his nose more Roman and his eyes more deeply set, and yet he is beautiful in the same way that a rugged pine tree is beautiful.

King Oorang, which is an international champion, is an exemplification of the perfect Airedale. His highness, a recent acquisition to the kennels, also has earned his titles on two continents. These dogs are about the best pair ever seen in America, and their wins include trophies from Germany, Belgium, Scotland, Ireland and Canada.

Not alone are they wonderful show dogs, but noted sters as well. His Highness was bred in Germany, where Airedales are most popular, and has an unbeaten record on the Continent, having won a number of times for the best of all breeds at the largest shows in these countries. The importation of His Highness into America by Mr. Albright should prove of incalculable value to the breed, as it represents a new line of blood, climate, soil, etc.

The leading English experts, many of whom judged him in Germany, agreed, with an unwonted unanimity of thought, that His Highness is the best of the breed yet produced. He is sired by Champion Diavolo Goldberg; his mother is Champion Lady Fasendorf, making a trio of champions unequalled in the history of the breed.

King Oorang, after winning his championship in three countries abroad, gained a like honor in the United States, and the keenest competition, under the leading adjudicators of the show ring. The King has won the special for the best of the breeds and the best of all breeds at the most important shows, and he bids fair to equal his phenomenal show record with his record as a sire. His father was the great and only Champion Rockley Oorang, which has for the last few years proved to be the pillar of the breed in England. His grandchild, Champion Crompton Oorang, is considered in Great Britain the best dog of the breed seen in the last decade.

In the division of the matrons the Baughfell Kennels have any number of great ones. Champion Brickfield Molly and Champion Baughfell Heather head the list and are about the best of their sex to be found in America. Both of these bitches have won everything abroad. Brickfield Molly has carried away the trophy for the best of all breeds on several occasions. Her latest exploit was at Cleveland, under that eminent judge James Mortimer, where she won the special for the best in the show.

Baughfell Heather's most recent appearance was at Mineola, under the well known English expert Walter Glynn. Here she annexed the special for the best Airedale bitch in the show. Both of these young matrons are busy at present in the nursery. Their children are half-brothers and sisters, having for a father the imported Champion His Highness.

All of the wire-haired breeds seem to flourish and become champions in the Baughfell kennels. West Highland white terriers are a recent addition to the string and Mr. Albright has some of the best in the country. There are champion Baughfell Talsku, a snow white dog with an international reputation; Baughfell Bobbin and the young matron Barac Snowflake. Champion Balgownie Marvellous is the representative for that quaint old terrier, the Dandie Dinmont.

Irish terriers show champion Baughfell Peggy, Baughfell Banshee, Baughfell Bantry and Reprive. One of the most important of the wire haired dogs is High Gear, a fox terrier of wonderful quality. The smooth fox terriers are headed by the

Storm Cuts Newark Kennel Show Entries

But Enough Champions Appear to Make Keen Struggle for Points.

HIS HIGHNESS TAKES THE PRESIDENT'S CUP

Andrew Albright's Airedale Terrier Proves Best Among All Breeds.

With an entry of 663 dogs and 1,050 entries, it looked as though the winners at the second annual show of the Newark Kennel Club, which was held at the Essex Troop Armory yesterday, would add three points to their championship. Unfortunately, the blizzard stalled so many of the dogs, however, that more than half that number were benched, and it was necessary to postpone the judging until 1 o'clock instead of 10, as was planned.

Fortunately, several of the large kennels were nearby, or there would have been a dearth of notables on hand, but as it was there was a good showing of champions and near champions, and more than one aspirant welcomed the two points to complete his title.

The president's cup for the best in the show was won by Andrew Albright's new Airedale terrier champion His Highness. Representatives from every breed entered in the competition, but it was evident from the first that it lay between His Highness and the bull terrier ch. Sound End Sombra. His Highness was entered for specials only, as he very good, it was a sure thing. His Highness is a recent importation. He was bred by Carl Forester, being by Champion Diavolo Goldberg and Champion Lady Fasendorf. His Highness is valued at $2,000.

Mr. Albright's kennels were well represented. Sombra is a recent addition to the Baughfell Kennels and many picked him for first choice. He is undoubtedly about the finest specimen of his breed that has been seen here in many seasons, and he was eventually chosen as reserve to His Highness' championship.

The vice-president's cup for the best of the opposite sex went to a beautiful Russian wolfhound, Ronia, from the kennels of Oscar Vos. Ronia is by champion Lasky and Holmes Lonia.

LAST CALL FOR PHILADELPHIA SHOW

Many Dogs To Be Benched
at the Exhibition on March 3, 4 and 5.

This is the last call for entries for the third annual show of the Kennel Club of Philadelphia, which will be held in Horticultural Hall on March 3, 4 and 5. The entry list will close on Tuesday with George F. Foley at Lansdowne, Penn.

There will be 654 classifications of the regular classes at the show and the prize list shows many trophies to be won outright.

Among the judges will be Sir William Savory, who will come here to pass on sporting spaniels. Thomas Hamilton Adams, another English judge, will take care of the larger dogs.

From England also comes Holland Buckley, called "the Airedale terrier king." Mr. Buckley will have charge of the terrier classes.

Francis G. Taylor will reappear as a judge after a long absence from the show ring. He will look after the setters. Dr. J. E. De Mund, of New York, president of the Russian Wolfhound Club of America, will judge that breed.

Freeman Lloyd will officiate in the miscellaneous classes; Milfin Hickman, of Westtown, will judge American foxhounds, and Robert Cotesworth, of Red Bank, N. J., will judge the English foxhounds.

The famous Middlesex Hunt Club pack, the Radnor, Rose Lee and Mather packs and several others will be shown. George B. Post, Jr., the owner of the Somerset pack of beagles, will judge the beagles. Charles G. Hopton, James Watson, Robert Hughes, Jules Peron, C. F. B. Lethbridge and G. Muss-Arnolt complete the list.

C. G. Hopton will judge Sealyham terriers, bulldogs and Pekinese spaniels. A class for puppy Sealyham terriers has been made.

Mrs. M. E. Harby will not enter her noted Pekinese winner, Chu-Yen of Tiddington, at the Philadelphia show. Chu-Yen was sold by Mr. Hopton to Mrs. Harby and won the cup for the best of the breed at the Plaza show.

The list of specials for bulldogs at Philadelphia surpasses all former records. Specials shows are offering their numerous challenge cups and medals, while the list of the specials to be won outright makes a total of 81, which surpasses the New York show. This is a compliment to Mr. Hopton, who has not judged the breed in the East since the bulldog breeders' show in April.

DOG CUPS HARD TO WIN

That Is, Those Offered Under Conditions Difficult to Meet.

Sporting Editor New-York Tribune.

Sir: Will you please say a word in your kennel columns about the ridiculous conditions which govern the winning of many of the trophies offered.

It is perfectly apparent to all fanciers that some of the valuable prizes which are put up, ostensibly to be won, are merely exploited to advertise the donor; that nothing short of a miracle could make them the property of any one person. These are called "challenge trophies," which, correctly interpreted, means that the giver challenges all potential recipients to get them away from the club which is offering them.

How about a cup which is offered for novices, the conditions stating that three must compete, when every one knows that there are not three novices of that breed in America? How about a cup to be competed for annually and to be won five times by five different dogs? and there are many such.

You can't put a man in jail for offering a trophy which he knows will never be won, so they keep right on doing it. I write this more in sorrow than in anger.

HOPE DEFERRED.
